

HOW THE SEAWANHAKA JURY STOOD.*The Facts About a Matter which has been Mistakenly Represented.

Mr. Henry J. Robinson of 2 South street, was a member of the jury which failed to agree to a verdict in the Seawanhaka case. He said yesterday that the statements relating to the discussion in the jury room purporting to have been made by Mr. Richards of the jury to Assistant District Attorney Fiero, and published in the newspapers, are incorrect in nearly every particular. He does not believe that Mr. Richards really said what had been attributed to him. On the first ballot, Mr. Robinson says, the jury stood seven for conviction and four for acquittal. There was one blank ballot, which Mr. Richards is said to have cast. Eight or ten ballots followed, and on every ballot the jury stood eight for conviction and four for acquittal. The four who voted for acquittal were determined to be Mr. Robinson, Mr. Fiero, Mr. J. M. Coughlin, and Mr. Richards.

There were six counts in the indictment. The jury agreed to confine them into three trials, to simplify matters. The first and second formed the first count, the third and fourth counts made the second, and the fifth and sixth counts made the third.

On Friday afternoon, the jury having been out one day, Mr. Robinson said there was no prospect of an agreement, and a compromise was suggested. The jury would need another day to favor an acquittal on the three combined counts expressed their willingness to stand on the first count if the others would, and agreed to do so. After the trial, the marshal looked in and asked if the jury had agreed upon a verdict. Some one said no, and the remaining gentlemen, you are discharged," said the marshal.

"It is absurd," continued Mr. Robinson, "to say as has been said, that we were not out of our counting room, or were discharged against our will. We were all glad enough to get away, my sir."

A number of defendants' counsels says that Mr. Richards, a juror, gave him information from the jury room, which was different from the representations said to have been given to Assistant District Attorney Fiero. He has the communication that the jurors had agreed to a verdict of guilty on the first count, in which they said they could not agree and asked to be discharged.

DETECTIVE CAMPBELL EXONERATED.*The Verdict of the Jury in the Case of the Blackmailing Sager.

At the opening of yesterday's session of the Sager inquest, Peter Hoffman testified that Vogel and Sager used to meet each other, apparently by arrangement, in his father's grocery in Stanton street.

Albert Felix Vogel was then called to the stand, but was told that he need not answer any questions nor make any statement. He had written out a statement in German, which he said he was willing to read to the jury.

Lawyer S. B. Hamburger, one of the jurors, asked the Coroner to ask Vogel how often he had met the governess, Miss Spelman, outside of Mr. Strasburger's house.

So did the Coroner, "we won't go into that. He admits that he called on her there. There has been no injury caused in the case, at least by Capt. Gunnell."

In the meantime, Vogel told the story of his being introduced to Mr. Strasburger by Friedrich on shipboard while coming to this country, and of his meeting with Spelman, whom he had not seen since, but whom he well knew and acquainted. He confesses to having sent to Mr. Strasburger the printed letter, says that he did not know it was forged, and that he had told him that it must be kept up.

Vogel under 17 to learn a trade, paid while learning, steady employ. 194 South 5th st.

HANDS on invisible note; best prices paid.

FISHERIES.—Gone, present, gone. Understanding business directed to me, charge of shop.

WOLF BRODS, 60 Prince st.

FIRST-CLASS CLASS.—Openings on penthouse, FRIESE BROS., 201 Canal st.

FIRST-CLASS TAILORERS.—On custom pants.

420 West 24th st. Good wages paid.

FISHERIES.—On fancy caps; boys and children. 424 West 24th st.

FOOTWEAR.—On shoes wanted at HENRY ARTHUR & CO., 828 and 830 Gold st.

GIRLS.—May learn thoroughly any sewing machine for $50 cent at the sewing machine school of the Brothers of the Cross, 20th and 21st st. Bicks and Henrys, near Fulton. Hours 9 to 6 o'clock.

GOOD finishers for custom pants, steady work. 127 East 26th st.

GOLF wanted for general housework, a good and kind master. 104 East Henry, in basement.

GOLF under 17 to learn a trade, paid while learning, steady employ. 194 South 5th st.

HANDS on invisible note; best prices paid.

OPERATOR in household service wanted for female infant. 104 North 2d.

OPERATORS for custom trimmings, also hats. 104 North 2d.

SEWING MACHINES.—New home, Domestic, 10c. per week. 512 Second st.

SEWING MACHINES.—Pent, good hats, greatest variety. 104 North 2d.

SEWING MACHINES.—Good hats, greatest variety. 104 North 2d.

SEWING MACHINES.—All kinds, 75c. wanted.

SEWING MACHINES.—All kinds, 75c. wanted.